

From the WCNY VAULT

WCNY is opening its vault doors to feature favorite classic WCNY-produced programs from the past.

SEE WHAT'S COMING UP!

WATCH ON TV & ONLINE

Enjoy these classics all year round, with one movie featured each month on WCNY television. Check online for TV broadcast dates or watch the monthly feature online at video.wcny.org.

WHERE TO WATCH WCNY ON TV

Over the Air 24.1 • Spectrum Basic / Digital 4, 11, 12, 13, 15, or 1221 • Verizon FiOS 11 • DirecTV 24-1 • DISH 24

William Henry Seward: Lincoln's Right Hand
WATCH OCT. 9 AT 9 P.M.

Mr. William Seward left a legacy that encompasses more than expansionist dreams. With historic photography, archival footage and on-location segments, the documentary provides historical insight into a founding father of the Republican Party and also one of America's most enigmatic though often overlooked politicians.

Riding the Rails: A History of Railroads in CNY
WATCH NOV. 6 AT 9 P.M.

Explore the history and significance of railways in Utica, Syracuse, and other areas of the Empire State. Hear from Onondaga Historical curator, Dennis Connors, and National Railway Historical Society member, Al Kallfelz, in this documentary.

Central New York Christmas
WATCH DEC. 4 AT 9 P.M.

This 1989 documentary by WCNY captures the frosted imagery and treasured traditions of the holiday across the region.

Bluegrass Ramble Special
WATCH JAN. 22 AT 9 P.M.

CNY Bluegrass legend, Bill Knowlton, host of WCNY's "Bill Knowlton Bluegrass Ramble" radio program for nearly 50 years, opens the stage to some of the region's leading Bluegrass and Folk music groups of the day.

Arctic Air: A Greenlandic Journey with the 109th
WATCH FEB. 12 AT 9 P.M.

This program captures the commitment of scientists and military flight crews in a frozen land of incredible beauty but where danger always lurks. See the camps where international teams of scientists seek to unlock mysteries of the past buried deep within the polar ice cap to help provide answers to some of today's most important questions about climate change and global warming.

Central NY's Own: Broadcast Legends

From the early days of WFBL, Syracuse's first radio station in the 1920's, to broadcast legends like Marty Glickman and Dick Clark, WCNY recounts some of the great voices and faces of broadcast media's first three generations.

Stars, Diamonds and the Chiefs

As venerable MacArthur stadium hosted its last ballgame in 1996 and Syracuse's new baseball stadium rose in its parking lot, WCNY celebrated CNY's rich minor league baseball legacy.

Dream Destinations: NY's Contemporary Canals

This canal-side journey showcases the historic, cultural, natural and recreational assets that abound. WCNY took high-definition cameras on the road to four canals: the Oswego, the Champlain, the Cayuga-Seneca, and the Great Erie Canal.

Great Amusement Parks of Central New York

The ratcheting sounds of roller coasters and the calliopes of the historic carousels are captured in this award-winning tour of the region's most cherished fun parks. Historic photos and 21st century footage capture the parks in all of their grandeur.

The Performers: Taking Center Stage in New York Agriculture

Exploring modern agriculture across New York, this 2007 documentary hosted by Liz Ayers criss crosses the state's most fertile fields and cutting edge farms to learn how New York growers stay competitive in a global economy. The program visits with 12 farm families who build tradition with innovation from Long Island to Lake Erie to the Adirondacks.

An American Saint: Marianne Cope
(centennial of her death Aug. 9, 1918)

This one-hour documentary follows the story of Sister Marianne Cope, a German immigrant raised in Utica whose life journey led her from CNY to Hawaii, and ultimately to sainthood.

QUESTIONS?

(315) 453-2424

wcny.org/passport