“Nelcy, come downstairs for breakfast,” mom says.

Nelcy is under the covers. She does not want to go to a new school.

time
to come down stairs

Nelcy eats quickly and then she puts her notebook, crayons, scissors, diary, gum,
and finally her pencil in her bag.

Nelcy has never been in a new school and she has never been in first grade before.

On the bus Nelcy sees a girl with long brown hair. The girl looks very nice.

Nelcy sits down next to her.

“What’s your name?” asks Nelcy.

“My name is Macy,” says the girl.

They talk the rest of the way to school.

“We have a new student. Her name is Nelcy Bookline,” Miss Rosa says.

Miss Rosa has straight, short, brown hair. She has a rose necklace and earrings. She has a really pretty dress that goes to her knees, white tights, black high heels and glasses. She is gentle and understands people.

The rest of the day Nelcy does her work, goes to different classes and talks to Macy.

When she gets home, Nelcy runs inside, brings her bag to her room, locks her door, closes the curtains, gets out her best sparkly pink pen and writes in her diary.

The second day of school at lunchtime Nelcy sits down next to Macy.

Ann sits across from Nelcy.

Ann has dark, dark brown hair with streamers of curls that make it poofy. She has beads in her hair and light brown skin.

She is really nice and usually smiles and her eyes are wide.

At recess Nelcy, Ann and Macy play house.

Finch sneaks up on them and scares them.

Finch is tough. He has really short brown hair and is wearing a shirt with a pirate flag and skull on it.

When Nelcy gets home she opens her bag and there is a note for her mom.

Dear Mrs. Bookline,

Nelcy has been doing great in school and paying attention.
She is very nice to everyone.

A month later it is Nelcy's birthday. It is October 2.

There is a spelling test.

Nelcy feels like she is going to fail her test.
